PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Axial Training's SIT30522 - Certificate III in Events is a comprehensive qualification designed for individuals aspiring to work in the events industry.

This qualification is about getting the skills to handle various tasks at events, from setting up to running the show. It teaches you how to get tasks done properly, make smart decisions, and work independently while still having the backup of more experienced event staff. You'll learn to follow the plan, stick to the rules, and make sure everything runs smoothly.

This course is perfect for jumping into the events scene, which is as varied as they come—you could end up working anywhere from festivals and sports events to cultural shows and community events. You might find work with companies that specialise in putting on events, venues that host them, or places that run their own events.
